News Digest.

Mr. EDMONDSON, M. C. from Virginia, assaulted Mr. HICKMAN, of Pennsylvania, in the streets of Washington on Saturday.

Half the business portion of Canton, N. Y., was destroyed by fire on Saturday. Loss estimated at $45,000. We have also accounts of fires in Philadelphia, Cleveland and Canadagua.

Some late and interesting news from Brownsville will be found in our telegraph columns.

No definite action was had on the Post Office Appropriation Bill, in the House, on Saturday.

Rev. Dr. BROWNLEE, of the Collegiate Dutch Reformed Church, N. Y., is dead.

The Mayoralty.

A call upon Alexander Mitchell to become a candidate for Mayor, is being circulated for signatures. Mr. Mitchell, we believe, is a Republican in politics, and as the party is considerably in the minority cannot be elected without Democratic aid. We are informed that there are some Democrats who are willing to support him. The originators and circulators of the call are said to have acted with the Democratic party so far as to accept offices of profit and emolument under Democratic administrations. The custom of the Democratic party, however, has been to determine in conventions who it would be proper to support as candidate for such offices, and we presume that this usage will not be departed from this spring. Some pseudo Democrats do nothing but labor for the demoralization of the party to which they profess to belong, and we are not surprised to learn that they are soliciting signatures of Democrats to this call. It is their vocation.—News of Sat.

When the editor of the News can show as clean a political record as the gentlemen who are circulating and signing the "call" above referred to, it will be quite time to stigmatize them as "pseudo Democrats." The movement which the News makes such haste to condemn has no partisan objects or character. It originates with men who rightly think that the election of ALEXANDER MITCHELL to the Mayoralty would be of incalculable benefit to Milwaukee, both at home and abroad. The question which the News proposes to the Tax-Payers and property-owners of Milwaukee, is simply this: Whether our city shall be plunged still deeper into difficulties and debt, in order to avoid "the demoralization of the Democratic party;" or whether the interest, credit and welfare of Milwaukee are not of more consequence to each and all of its citizens, than the ephemeral success of any "party" whatever. We have little doubt how the people will answer this question.

THREE REASONS.—There are three reasons why we cannot publish the communication signed "A White Dog." 1st. The editor's responsible name of the writer does not accompany the communication. 2d. The foreman's report of the matter on both sides of the paper. 3d. The compositor's reason: it is in pencil marks.—Janesville Gazette.

These "reasons" are conclusive, and gentlemen or ladies, who are ambitious to figure in the columns of newspapers, as contributors, or correspondents, would do well to bear this in mind. Of course the name of the author of any article is not required, in order to be published; but merely to satisfy "the editor," that the communication comes from a proper and responsible source.

THE BERLIN NEWS is the name of FRANK HYDE'S new paper. "Number one" is before us. We always said FRANK would gravitate to Berlin and do something brilliant. Behold the verification. The News is a brilliant, reliable, enterprising, first class journal. We welcome it to our heart and from a mass of sterling original matter select the following to garnish our own columns:

"EXCHANGES.—We hope every publisher in the State who considers his paper fit to read, will send it to us, and if we coincide with them, we will reciprocate. An exception is made in favor of the Milwaukee Sentinel. If the publishers of that paper will send us their daily and weekly, publish our prospectus and the first fourteen columns of our forthcoming story, and send us nine dollars and eighty-four cents in cash, we will send them the News."

DEATH OF AN EDITOR.—The Republican Journal, published at Columbus, comes to us with the column rules turned. In the editorial column we find an obituary of MARCUS A. MALLO, the junior editor of the sheet. He died of that much dreaded and always fatal disease, consumption, on Saturday, the 4th inst., at the hour of 2 1-2 o'clock in the morning, having been confined to his room ten weeks. His age was 22 years and 4 months.

FOR LA CROSSE EVERY TIME—and nothing but La Crosse. We mean Prairie La Crosse, not Target Lake, not Taylor's Island, nor La Crescent, nor Barron's Island, North La Crosse, Minnesota, South La Crosse, or any other place in Christendom, shall drive us from this position.—La Crosse Republican.

If he keeps on at that rate much longer, the people of La Crosse will hire him to leave his position.

Learmouth vs. Veeder. Argument completed.

FRIGHTFUL CALAMITY.—Samuel Collins, of Weyauwega, while at work in Waupaca, says the Waupaca Spirit, about the planing shop of Mr. Allen, last Monday morning, had his left hand and arm drawn under the knives of the machine, and literally cut in half-inch pieces nearly to the elbow. Drs. Brainard, Taylor and Calkins amputated the arm, and the patient is now doing well. Mr. Collins has a wife and two children, and is a hard working man. The public deeply sympathize with him in his affliction. He was taken to his home in Weyauwega last Tuesday.

There is many a man whose tongue might govern multitudes, if he could only govern his tongue.

THE CITY.

Valentine's Day.

If the birds mate to-morrow, is that any reason all the remaining animal kingdom should publish its lack of brains to the world? Who invented the popular system of epistolary nightmares? Was it not some malevolent monster with a domestic Xantippe at his elbow? What exotic delight must actuate the young ladies and gentlemen to invest their pin and cigar money in coarse wood cuts—to be folded and directed in disguised hands and sent to friends and enemies. The entire ignorance of how they are received is no drawback, it only leaves a greater margin for malicious imagination. Our neighbor, the commission merchant, who yearly receives a tinted missive depicting him as an over-colored and over-drawn Shylock clutching a massive purse, smiles a sickly smile and then pokes it in his stove. No doubt there lives some one whose entire happiness is made up in fancied contemplation of this gentleman's boundless rage. Valentines have degenerated into lampoons. (we came near saying paper harpoons,) though there are still enough of the sentimental left to invest fabulous sums in gaudy lithographic epistles—who spend their money for silver leaf cupids with terra sienna hair, and for altars and hymenial torches and great bowing hearts impaled with mythological darts. We suspect that one or two of our friends will do their own Valentines on common note paper—but the majority of those who will patronize the post to-morrow will buy all their affection and satire at the book store. And when we think of it—this is a very convenient thing—to have epistolary opinions made to order; that is, it would be convenient if we could have it all the year round, so that when we wanted to tell a man what we thought of him we could slip in at TUNIS' and pick out the very symbol which for five cents would convey all the withering contempt it would take us so many hours to work up in orthography.

There is, however, an ensuperable repugnance in our family of twelve or thirteen (beautiful) girls, against valentines. Mary, the oldest, who is somewhat advanced, dislikes to be represented as a valuable old maid, in a gamboge dress, combing a young man's hair, with a three legged stool. Maria objects to being carricatured by crinoline which rivals the immensity of space; and Sarah and all the rest proclaim valentines vulgar, insufferable, ungentlemanly. And we, the father of them all, (not the velentines) have a very defined impression that when we get the same number of boys, the objections will be doubled.

We must say, in conclusion, that we object to valentines ourselves. We cannot see the fun of being painted with an enormous pen over our ear, (the pen, not the ear) mightier than any sword we ever saw, and with a nose larger than St. Vulcan's peak. We object to being painted with an enormous watch a and fob chain; we only have a three dollar watch, which we keep for pawning purposes, when any of our country cotemporaries come in town and expect to be treated. Taking everything into consideration, we think St. Valentine's day is a humbug!

MASQUERADE SUGGESTIONS.—As there are a great many of our most respectable citizens in much doubt as to what original character they can assume on the 21st, the occasion of the grand masquerade of the Musical Society and as the common run of costumes and characters have been worn threadbare, we take the liberty of suggesting a few which, we think, have never been assumed, at least in Milwaukee.

First, as it is quite admissable to represent an idea or a fact, as well as a living or ideal personage, we suggest that some one personate the Cholera. It would be a good idea to have a robe of patent medicines thrown over the shoulders. But the grand, the mystic and the beautiful are better adapted to our Milwaukee ladies; therefore, we suggest, as a new and startling representation, Halley's Comet. The tail may be represented by several yards of Brussels lace, starched so as to stand out behind. The effect would be thrilling and new.

Among classic characters we suggest Hippona, the goddess of horses and stables, as superior to "Lady Gay Spanker." A raw hide and stable broom would be good accompaniments, or even a pitchfork and bag of oats. Niobe is a good character, if the person assuming it is not particular about soundness of dress. Niobe, it will be remembered, wept herself into a statue. There is, of course, no particular necessity of imitating her in this respect. As a character very appropriate to some of our elite, we suggest Mercury, mythologically supposed to be the god of thieves. Our lamented friend POMEROY used to take this character "to perfection," always using a pair of scissors for his caduceus.

There are a great many characters which we never saw personated; among them are Philip of Macedon and Biondin of Niagara, Fernando De Soto and the Benicia Boy. But we refrain from mentioning more. Persons of cultivated taste will not fail to discover in the records of the past some brilliant personage on whose name they can confer additional lustre by entering into their clothes.

In conclusion, we would suggest that gentlemen taking the character of Diogenes should be careful in selecting tubs not to use those having had No. 2 Mackerel in them, as they have rather an odor of fish than philosophy.

WE UNDERSTAND that a gentleman of this city is ready to lease the new hall in Young's Block, for a dramatic company, as soon as it shall be finished. We are also informed that the company now playing at Madison is the one which will locate here for a while. We hope not! for this simple reason—that the stock is too poor. Milwaukee, we insist, will support a good company, at least for one season, and none other but a good company.—There has been a remarkable dearth of amusements—properly so called—for the last few months, but that is no argument in favor of a poor bill for the future. If we are to have a theatre, let it be one comprising some talent, not only in the management, but in the stock.

BALL OF SUPPLY HOSE NO. 1.—The tenth annual ball of Supply Hose No. 1 takes place to-morrow evening at the Walker House. The members of this Company will appear for the first time in their beautiful new uniform. This one of the most gallant and spirited Companies in the Department, and the probability is that the ball to-morrow evening will be one of the pleasantest of the season.

RUN OVER.—A little child of DENNIS MCGUEEN was run over in Michigan Street, on Saturday, by a milk wagon, the wheels passing over both its legs and strange to say not breaking them. The child, a girl about seven years old, was picked up by the bystanders, and the milkman pursued the even tenor of his milky way without stopping.

PROMENADE CONCERT.—Elsewhere will be found the programme of the Promenade Concert to be given on the 17th by the Vice-Regent and Managers of the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association.

Mount Vernon Festival.

On Friday next, the 17th instant, the Vice-Regent and Managers of the Ladies' Mount Vernon Association announce a grand entertainment at Albany Hall, in aid of the Fund for the purchase and preservation of the HOME OF WASHINGTON. A reference to our advertising columns will give the readers of the SENTINEL some idea of the entertainment to which they are invited. The Hall is to be decorated with appropriate Military, Masonic and Floral emblems; Mr. MIX, Mr. BROOKS and Mr. HISLOP taking charge of this important department. The floor will be carpeted and sofas, lounges, chairs, &c., provided by Mr. SEAMAN. The music will be furnished by our Milwaukee Society, under the competent lead of Mr. BALATKA, and, as it is superfluous to add, will be of the best quality. As the Ladies of Milwaukee contribute the Refreshments, and will arrange and attend the Supper tables in the Rotunda, it is unnecessary to say that everything there will be perfect. The Military of our city are to appear, on this occasion, in full dress; the Masons and members of similar orders will wear their richest "regalia;" and best of all, the Ladies are all pledged to don their most attractive costumes and light up the Hall with their brightest smiles.

The Vice-Regent, Mrs. ALEX. MITCHELL, and the Lady Managers, have been indefatigable in their efforts to ensure the complete success of this Festival. We are confident that the patriotic citizens of Milwaukee, reversing, as they do, the name and fame of WASHINGTON, will most heartily second these efforts, and thus render the affair a complete success. "Young America," it will be seen by the programme, is not to be forgott en; the afternoon of the 18th being set apart and ample provisions made, for their entertainment. We cordially invoke the earnest and active co-operation of all our readers, in behalf of the Mount Vernon Festival.

YOUNG MEN'S ASSOCIATION LECTURES.—The next in the course comes off on Wednesday evening next at the Albany, the lecturer being the REV. GEO. T. RIORDAN, and the subject, "The Spirit of the Age."

Of course, as a Catholic divine, Father RIORDAN will take his view of existing local and political evils from a point quite at the antipodes of that of many of the thinkers and reformers of the day; but we may safely guaranty a courteous treatment of opponents, whatever he may say of their theories. He comes among us with the prestige of a high reputation as an orator, both among his own people and others who have heard him while connected with the Catholic parish here. Progressionists and conservatives, in earnest to ameliorate the condition of the race, will alike be gratified by a philosophical and logical treatment of the theme under discussion; and others intent only a on high intellectual effort, will have the pleasure of listening to one of the most graceful elecutionists and effective speakers in the State.

It is note-worthy of the Association, at whose instance Mr. R. appears before a Milwaukee audience, that speakers of all creeds and of none have been invited, from time to time, to lecture under its auspices.

GRAND BURLESQUE CONCERT.—To-morrow evening the Milwaukee Musical Society offer us a bill as novel as it is attractive. They call it a Burlesque Concert, in which all the pieces selected are of a comic character, and will be performed in costume. In the "first part" we find a "Duett between two Pussies," among a number of other novelties, and we confess ourselves sufficiently interested with this feature alone, to engage our seat beforehand. The "second part" will co nsist of the second act of the opera "Czar and Zimerman."

Concerts of this nature have in Europe always been occasions for the greatest amusement and merriment, and have never failed to draw crowded houses in the carnival season: and the Society gravely inform all lovers of music, fun and merriment, that should they fail to attend this "merry concert," they will repent it all their life-time.

The character of the Musical Society is sufficient guaranty that the whole affair will be conducted with ability and decorum.

Tickets, fifty cents each, may be had at NIEDECKEN & CO.'s, and at HEMPSTED'S store.

THE DETROIT AND MILWAUKEE RAILWAY —ARRIVAL OF THE PROPELLER CUYAHOGA.—The propeller Cuyahoga arrived from Grand Haven on Saturday night, with thirty passengers and some fifty tons of freight. Her boiler having been repaired, the Cuyahoga will now continue running regularly between this city and Grand Haven, until the steamships are both ready to take their places in the route.

The Detroit is nearly finished and will be fully ready for business by the end of the present month, and the repairs upon the Milwaukee are being pushed forward with all possible despatch.

TELEGRAPH!

REPORTED BY THE N. Y. ASSOCIATED PRESS, FOR THE DAILY SENTINEL.

Additional by the Canada.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—3 P. M.

The procession attending the removal of Capt. Harrison's remains from Southampton, was headed by the officers and crew of the Great Eastern. The American Consul was amongst the large number who took part in it. The corpse reached Liverpool on the morning of the 27th, and was interred in St. James Cemetery in that city, in the presence of an immense crowd.

FRANCE.—Mr. Thorvercl had assumed office as Minister of Foreign Affairs on the 24th ult. He issued circulars to the various Ambassadors, pledging his best efforts to maintain the existing friendly relations.

The commercial treaty between France and England continued to attract attention and speculation.

The Constitutional publishes several articles of the treaty, as the following: On and after July 1st, 1860, the imports in cotton and wool will be suppressed. English coal and coke will be subject to the same duty as in Belgium, after Oct. next; a duty of two francs will be substituted for the actual duty on iron from Dec. next; duties on machinery will be diminished from Jan. 1861; importers of thread and hemp will be subject to a duty not exceeding 30 per cent.; and from Oct. 1861, all remaining prohibitions will be abolished. The advantages granted to France be stated shortly.

Some French journals report that the duty on French wines imported into England will be only 2d. per bottle, or 1s., instead of 5 and 9d. per gallon, and silk will be admitted free.

The project for the annexation of Savoy and Nice to France was being openly alluded to by French semi-official journals, as an almost accomplished fact.

ITALY.—The Independance, of Turin, Count Cavour's organ, says nothing now opposes the Prince Carignani's assumption of the Regency.

The Marquis of Massano Dagoglio is appointed Governor of Milan. Ratezzne has left for Nice.

Row between Hickman and Edmondson, M. C's.

NEW YORK, Feb. 11—9 P. M.

The Tribune's Washington correspondence of the 10th inst. says: A personal difficulty happened after the adjournment of the House to-day.

As Mr. Hickman was returning home thro' the Capitol grounds, he was overtaken by Mr. Edmondson, of Va., who, upon approaching him, called out and drew back his hand to strike.

Mr. Clingman, who was accidentally passing, stepped up and seized his arm, when Mr. E. struck at Mr. Hickman with his left hand, knocking off his hat, but doing him no injury. The whole affair was instantaneous, and seemed to surprise Mr. Hickman.

Mr. Breckinridge, who came up, took him away, when the scene ended.

The alleged provocation for this attack was an insulting reflection on Virginia, contained in a recent speech of Hickman's, in which he charged that seventeen men and a cow had frightened the whole State.

The Republican Congressional Committee for the Presidential campaign decided unanimously last night, not to receive any portion of the profits of the House printing, as had been suggested, but to obtain means by voluntary contributions as heretofore, for circulating documents and necessary expenses.

Governor Robinson, of Kansas, appeared before the Harper's Ferry Investigating Committee, and will conclude his evidence to-morrow. He had not seen Mr. Brown in over two years, and had only limited intercourse with him. He had no knowledge of any sort, of his raid in Virginia, until the event was published.

Congressional Proceedings.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11—9 P. M.

HOUSE.—Mr. Morrill, of Vt., presented the petition of Wm. A. Howard, (Rep.) of Michigan, contesting the seat of Mr. Cooper, (Dem.)

Mr. Garnett, of Va., was excused from service as a member of the Committee on the District of Columbia.

Mr. Morris, of Illinois, offered a resolution calling on the Executive and Heads of Departments to communicate first the names of persons appointed to office by the present Administration in Illinois; copies of all petitions, letters, remonstrances, and other papers on which the appointments and removals were made.

Mr. Barksdale, of Miss., objected to the farther reading of the resolution.

Mr. Morris said the information should not be suppressed.

Mr. Barksdale said when the resolution was in order, nobody would object.

John Cochrane presented a copy of the resolutions adopted by the New York Chamber of Commerce, in relation to the advantages of mail communication with Mexico, which were referred to the Committee on Commerce.

Mr. Sherman, from the Committee on Ways and Means, reported back the P. O. appropriation bill, whereupon the House resolved itself into a committee of the whole on the state of the Union on the subject, Mr. Grow in the chair.

Mr. Sherman said that the Senate amendment providing for the printing of the P. O. blanks by contract was one which ought to be adopted in an independent law, and all the members of the Committee on Ways and Means were in favor of such legislation, but they were opposed to its incorporation in an appropriation bill to carry out an existing law. No new legislation should be inserted therein. Such a practice had been growing up for a few years past.

Mr. Phelps said that Mr. Sherman had correctly stated the opinion of the committee, but he differed from its action and was willing to concur in the amendment under protest. It was a measure of reform; and 70 per cent. would by it be saved to the Government.

Mr. Lovejoy expressed the hope that the House would concur in the amendment.

Mr. Milson opposed the amendment abolishing the franking privilege.

Mr. Cobb advocated the giving out the printing of Postoffice blanks by contract.

Mr. Florence said it was a mistake that 70 per cent. would be saved, but about 30 per cent. would be.

Mr. Cobb replied that that was wor

Each Assembly District of the State will be entitled to two delegates in such Convention, except where a district includes more than one County, when each county will be entitled to two delegates.

The committee would respectfully suggest that Assembly District Conventions to elect delegates to the State Convention be held as early as Saturday, the 18th day of February.

The Republican State Convention.

This body meets at Madison on Wednesday, the 29th instant, to choose Delegates to the National Republican Convention, which is to assemble at Chicago on the 17th of June next, for the purpose of designating candidates for President and Vice-President of the United States; and also to take action in regard to the Judicial Election in this State, on the first Tuesday in April. The Primary Meetings for the election of Delegates to the State Convention are to be held on Saturday next, the 18th instant. We desire, therefore, again to call the attention of our Republican friends, everywhere, to the importance of these gatherings, and to urge upon them the duty and necessity of improving this occasion to commence the indispensable work of organizing for the campaign.

We hope to see, at these Primary meetings on Saturday next, a full turn out of our Republican electors. Let us "open the ball" in the right spirit. Let us send our best and truest men to Madison. Let us organize, in every Assembly district, a REPUBLICAN CLUB. Let us take measures to circulate among the people the right kind of political information. Let us open a Republican muster-roll, on which, ere the election is held, shall be inscribed the name of every man in Wisconsin, who proposes, on the sixth day of next November, to vote for a REPUBLICAN President. Let us do all this and do it thoroughly, and WISCONSIN, in the great issue then to be decided between FREEDOM and SLAVERY, will give 20,000 majority for the Republican cause and the Republican candidates.

Be on hand then, friends, next Saturday to begin the good work!

"Our Larrabee."

A Washington correspondent of the News, discoursing about the election of Speaker, indulges in very extravagant laudation of Mr. LARRABEE, and informs the astonished public that he narrowly escaped being elected to the chair which Mr. PENNINGTON so well fills. Here is the story as B., (BERIAH BROWN) tells it:

"Mr Larrabee had a very narrow escape of being Speaker. The wishes and hopes of a large majority of the National men of the House, pointed to him as the available candidate, and he would have been united upon, and elected, but for the objection that McClernand, of Illinois, who occupied the same position politically and theologically, also, was entitled to long service in Congress and by having once failed in the election of Speaker by only three votes, to the distinction. Larrabee seemed to stand in the same relation to the claims set up by McClernand's friends, the consequence of which was that McClernand was presented and defeated, the Southern Opposition to Douglas being unwilling to endorse him through the next Presidential campaign. The p ople would have manifested Larrabee who was only slightly removed from that position, though without a public record to be brought up against him. It is doubtful, to all human appearance, if Larrabee had been presented, instead of McClernand's, he would have been elected. On such slight accidents does political greatness hang."

This is a very good story to "tell the marines," but the sailors won't believe it. No doubt "our LARRABEE" went out of his way to curry favor with the Know Nothings, Firesisters and "Southern Opposition to Douglas;" but he does not appear to have made any progress. His speeches in the last two political campaigns in this State place him on exactly the same DOUGLAS platform that Mr. MCCLERNAND occupies; and if, notwithstanding this "public record," the extreme Southern men were ready to "swallow him," it must have been because he gave the same sort of assurances to them, that he did to Mr. BUCHANAN, whose administration and doctrines he opposed on the stump and made haste to endorse as soon as he reached Washington.

Not content with a fulsome eulogy of LARRABEE, the News' correspondent makes a spiteful attack upon Speaker PENNINGTON, B says:

> A more humiliating spectacle was probably never exhibited in or dignified a body, as Pennington's first essay as Speaker. I never saw anything in a lodge of fools, equal to the ridiculous exhibition of the older and wiser attempting to preserve order and decide rules. All who were not ashamed into silence, were convulsed into laughter, at the grimaces and impotent attempts of the Speaker to preserve order or command respect.

All accounts agree that Mr. PENNINGTON is admirably qualified for the Speaker's chair and discharges its duties with dignity, intelligence and impartiality. But the panegyrist of "our LARRABEE" is a very fit person to decry and defame Mr. PENNINGTON.

THE SOUTH AND THE SENTINEL.—The Sentinel still denies that Mr. Smith made no declaration that he was not a Know-Nothing. Mr. Smith did make that declaration on the floor, and the Sentinel knows it. Mr. Smith is not a K. N., and the Sentinel knows it.—News.

The SENTINEL knows exactly the contrary. Mr. SMITH is a Know-Nothing; was elected to Congress by that party; was their regularly nominated candidate for Speaker; received the united K. N. vote in the House, and notwithstanding all that, obtained the support of all but three of the Democratic members. He made no "declaration" whatever on the floor, having been previously "gagged" by his friends to prevent his doing so. The N. Y. Tablet, a leading organ of our adopted citizens, certifies to the fact that Mr. SMITH is a KNOW-NOTHING, and indignantly denounces the Democratic members, "our LARRABEE" inclusive, for abandoning their principles and betraying their constituents, in the vote they gave for a KNOW-NOTHING Speaker.

A DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN DOCUMENT.—We learn, from the Memphis Avalanche, that a work entitled "Cotton is King, and Pro-Slavery Arguments," is about to be published by Dr. E. N. ELLIOTT, President of the Planters College, of Mississippi. It will embody the work of DAVID CHRISTY, Esq., entitled "Cotton is King," together with the Dred Scott decision, STRINGFELLOW'S Bible Argument for Slavery, BLEDSOE'S Liberty and Slavery, Chancellor HARPER on Slavery, Senator HAMMOND'S "Slavery in the Light of Political Science," and other documents on the same side of the question.

The work is to contain about 800 royal octavo pages, and will be furnished at $6 a copy to subscribers.

Here is a chance for Democratic Clubs to subscribe for a genuine Democratic Campaign Document. As the number to be published will undoubtedly be limited, orders should be sent on at once.

THE SLAUGHTER OF THE INNOCENTS.—Hon. EMERSON ETHERIDGE, of Tennessee, said of the Democratic "slaughter" scene, in the House, on the 27th ult: "If an artist had desired to have an original subject, he could have found it in this scene of human agony. All the features of the North-west Democrats were expressive of this fact."

THEY SAY that the trumpet-players are doomed to short lives. We doubt it; we have known men to blow their trumpets in ears sadly, and achieve a good troublesome old age.

THE MEMMINGER MISSION.—The Oppositionists in Virginia take very decided ground against the treasonable purposes sought to be accomplished through the agency of MEMMINGER, the South Carolina emissary. The Richmond Whig says:

> "As for ourselves, we have already expressed our opposition to the objects of the South Carolina Commissioner. We want no conference at present looking to a dissolution of the Federal Union, nor do we want any tampering or tinkering with the Federal Constitution. We concur with the Louisville Journal, that no new Constitutional guarantees are required, or can be obtained, or would be of any sort of value, if procured. The whole thing, therefore, according to our judgment, is simply and palpably a mere excuse for disunion. It is the flimsy pretext with which to cover over a great moral and national wrong in distinct and present contemplation."

A DOUGLAS ORGAN DISHEARTENED.—The DOUGLAS organ at Washington howls most dismally over the great Republican triumph in organizing the House:

> "The day, we fear, is far distant when the voice of the South will be again heard in the organization of the House. We see enough to satisfy us that, as confronted with the North, her strength in that body has departed forever. The submissionists within their own embraces have hastened this lamentable state of affairs. They may be properly denominated the Union-at-any-price politicians. They invite aggressive spirits to the perpetration of acts of aggression, and thus prepare the way for their own vassalage. It must be confessed that the condition of the South is anything but assuring to her citizens at the present period. We can perceive nothing encouraging for her political security looming up either in the near or distant future."

THE ADMINISTRATION AGAINST DOUGLAS.—The Washington Constitution publishes the sharp speech made by Senator FITCH the other day, in which he informed the South that if its representatives allowed DOUGLAS to be nominated at Charleston, that section would lose the respect of its enemies and the sympathy of its friends. The Constitution endorses the doctrines of the speech, and commends it to general perusal with much warmth. The speech was made at the suggestion of the President.

The Pope and Louis Napoleon.

Correspondence of the Evening Post.

MONTPELIER, Jan. 11, 1860.

The war which has been so long brewing between the Papal and the French Imperial governments may be said, at last, to have fairly broken out. The speech of the Pope on New Year's day, to Gen. de Goyon, who came with his staff to offer the salutations of the season, leaves no room for explanation or reconciliation. The "Opuscule," as the Pope terms the Congress et la Pape pamphlet, and which he says may be defined "a monument of hypocrisy and a sad picture of contradictions," is as indisputably the work of the Emperor of France as anything which has been attributed to his pen since the empire.

For the Pope to address such a compliment on the Emperor's undress performances to one of his generals, at the moment representing his own person, is an indignity which he will not forgive nor allow to go long unavenged. Indeed it is reported that Marshal Canrobert is to go immediately to Rome to arrange for the withdrawal of the French troops. This is quite probable, and a more swift and efficacious vengeance than this the Emperor could hardly desire, unless the relations between the Pope and his temporal subjects are much more harmonious than are generally supposed.

To call the Emperor a hypocrite and a liar, as the Pope does most unequivocally in stigmatizing his pamphlet "a monument of hypocrisy and a sad picture of contradictions," was bad enough, but the insult was greatly aggravated by the covert menace which immediately followed. After praying that its author may be blessed with light to see the error of the doctrines he has been preaching, the Pope says he hopes, nay, he is persuaded that the Emperor, "by the aid of these lights, will condemn the principles contained in this pamphlet"; and adds: "we are the more sure of it as we have for some time possessed some pieces which his Majesty has had the goodness to communicate to us which are a condemnation of these principles."

From Washington.

Correspondence of the Evening Post.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 5, 1860.

The Democrats drank the bitter cup proffered them on Friday last with a great deal of apparent agony. It was bad enough to swallow a Republican Speaker, but to take Forney was a great deal worse. He came in by one majority, but he could have had more votes if it were necessary. Mr. Sickles withheld his vote till the ballot was closed, when he arose and gave his vote for Allen, the candidate of the Democratic members. It is understood that he would have given his vote for Forney if it had been wanted to make an election. The Democrats were very sure that they were going to defeat Forney's election, if even they did not succeed themselves. They were still more sure of defeating Hoffman, of Md., for Sergeant-at-Arms, because of Glossbrenner's popularity. Some of the fire-eating members labored with great assiduity with the South Americans to prevent their giving Hoffman any support. The reason why they were so bitterly opposed to him is the very reason why the Republicans came so handsomely to his support—the fact that he had the courage in a former Congress to vote for the expulsion of Brooks. But seven or eight Americans were not deterred from voting for him, though they knew him to sympathize strongly with the Republicans.

ONE OF THE COMIC PAPERS capitally "takes off" the wholesale abuse of Governor Seward by the Democratic journals, which accuse him of nearly every conceivable crime, past, present, and future. The Atlas had about three columns of vituperation, yesterday, of which the following would serve as a pretty fair abstract:

ST. CLAIR FLATS APPROPRIATION VETOED.—President Buchanan has made stab at the interests of the another North-West. He has followed Democratic precedent, and vetoed the bill passed by the last Congress appropriating $55,000 to the improvement of St. Clair Flats. This was a mere pittance to the vast commerce of the Lakes, and yet this was denied by the provident President who had no scruples in approving appropriations of millions for Southern rivers, harbors, light-houses, breakwaters and piers. When the North-West asks for only $55,000 to deepen a channel through which passes a commerce enriching the national treasury second to no other, the President says, "I forbid!" and declares by way of excuse that a constitutional mode exists by which the Legislature of Michigan may, at its discretion, raise money to improve the channel of St. Clair river. He does not deny the power of Congress to make such an improvement as may be essentially necessary for defense and protection against invasion of a foreign enemy; but as St. Clair river is the boundary line, and any improvement of its navigation for the purposes of war would equally ensure the benefit of Great Britain, the sagacious Buchanan thinks the proposed improvement is not within this category.

The veto of President Buchanan is but one of a series of acts of injustice to the great West and North-West by modern Democratic administrations. The only hope of remedy is by wresting power from the hands of a party bound hand and foot by the South, and inaugurating a government based on an equality of rights throughout the Republic. —Cleveland Leader.

Further Proof of the Hostility of the National Democracy to the West.

Three our four days ago the President returned to the Senate the joint resolution appropriating $55,000 for the deepening of the channel of the St. Clair Flats. Two days ago he returned a similar resolution making an appropriation for the improvement of navigation at the mouth of the Mississippi. If there be such a thing as a national work each of these can lay claim to that title. The great mass of the productions of the Mississippi Valley which assumes the shape of exports, finds an outlet by the mouth of the Mississippi river. From Council Bluffs and St. Paul to New Orleans, the whole Western country is mainly dependent on the great river for the transportation of all it sells and all it buys. Free, unobstructed egress and ingress at the Balize for ships of every class and every tonnage, is, therefore, vitally essential to the prosperity of our foreign trade. The clearing away of the annual deposits of mud on the bar, though it were to cost millions, is a work that no government should neglect. But no such sum was appropriated, or is required. The appropriation in question was a trifling one—not more than $200,000, if our memory is not at fault.

The St. Clair river is the great highway for all the commerce of the lakes—of the entire Northwest, and of a large part of Canada, in its transit to and from the seaboard. Yet, the paltry sum of $55,000 could not be obtained from the Government for maintaining the navigable condition of the channel!

But Mr. Buchanan is not always parsimonious. He is ready to dispense thirty millions in bribes to the corrupt courtiers of Isabel, in expectation that their influence may be exercised in behalf of his pet scheme, the acquisition of Cuba. He is ready to give two or three hundred millions in addition for that island. He has sent a treaty for ratification to the Senate, which proposes to give a feeble anti-national faction in Mexico four millions in exchange for privileges and territory, which that faction have no right to sell—privileges and territory which none but traitors would propose to alienate, and which no honest American President would accept from such hands.

But these acquisitions would benefit the extreme South, the Disunion States, and the Disunion party. This is the key to his prodigality in that quarter, and to his miserable parsimony in the West, for the Disunionists regard the West with feelings of deep aversion, and it is they who govern him. Coming down to lesser things, we find that he authorizes or connives at the grossest jobbing in the giving out of army transportation contracts, coal contracts, live oak contracts, and government contracts of every description.

We also find that the public printing as awarded by him has been the source of a large corruption fraud, that he has forced upon the country contributions of $100,000 for the support of partizan presses, which ruined their proprietors in the insane effort to sustain his policy. He is not therefore, systematically parsimonious. He never extends an empty hand to the plunderers and Disunionists. He opens the treasury doors to them at all times and for all purposes; but the advocates of works which would be of great national utility, and of a wholly legitimate and peaceful character can find no magic incantation, no open sesame to turn those ponderous doors on their hinges.

Such is National Democracy. It pours the people's money out like water, for all corrupt purposes, all dangerous projects, but it refuses to devote a dollar to beneficent enterprises or national requirements.—St. Louis Democrat.

Review of the British Corn Trade for 1859.

From the Mark Lane Express, Jan. 16.

WHEAT.—From the best information we have been able to collect, we set the last English crop at decidedly under an average in the bulk, while the weight per bushel is fully 3 lbs lighter than an average, so that after allowing for the excess of old wheat on hand at harvest time, we consider we started with about our usual quantity in farmers hands. The samples vary much as indicated by the unusual range in quotations; a few off strong lands, well harvested, are fine, and weigh about 63 lbs, then come the good runs 60 lbs, then the hollow chested, thin, prematurely ripened, about 58 lbs, and thirdly very many soft, sprouted, badly harvested, worn to 55 lbs; and here we think it worthy of remark that the want of the usual supply of harvest laborers prevented the sufficiently quick ingathering of the crop already ripe from the extreme heat, and when the violent storms came after so long a drought, many farmers hurried their crops from the fields.

Our best crops are north of Newcastle. In Scotland they are particularly good, Ireland good. Denmark and Sweden splendid in quality and quantity; along the Baltic fine qualities and satisfactory quantities; Holland and Belgium very small; France less than an average in quantity and quality, but the deficiency is made up by the old wheat left over; Spain short, Portugal and Italy very deficient; Africa small; Syria almost a failure; Russia upon the whole small but quality fine; American an average in quantity and fine quality. The wonderful productiveness of 1856-57-58, but especially of the last two, left us with larger stocks in farmers' hands at harvest time than has been known for many years. This we think proved by the facts that the supplies of English from September to August, both inclusive in the respective seasons of 1857 to 1859 (years of great crops) were 5,094,611 qrs. and 5,215,-019 qrs. against 5,240,429 in '55 and 56, and 5,826,606 in '56 and '57, and notwithstanding the growing inferiority of the new crop, farmers' deliveries of fine old wheat since harvest have been so abundant at these very moderate rates as to keep it always cheaper than foreign, which has consequently been much neglected.

The low prices current last winter and spring caused no considerable quantity of English wheat to be used for cattle-food and for malting purposes, and the universally admitted enormous consumption of Indian wheat during the last three months has materially reduced any supercabundance. In reckoning for our wants up to another harvest, we must likewise bear in mind that we begun upon the new crop one month earlier than usual. America having a small crop of maize, and no stock of old wheat on hand, will spare us but little wheat or flour, unless our prices advance at least 5s. on wheat. France will be far less liberal than last year, and has better customers for her grain than ourselves, and that Ireland, having a very deficient oat crop and a thriving population, has hitherto drawn, and will doubtless continue to draw off, four-fifths of the Mediterranean supplies of wheat and maize. Of the 4,018,489 qrs. foreign imported into the United Kingdom, only 688,566 qrs. came to London. 1858 opened with an imperial weekly average price for English of 47s. 7d., and closed with 40s.; the annual aggregate average was 44s. 5d., the highest was 49s. 11d., the lowest 40s. per qr. Stock left on hand large. 1859 opened with 39s. 10d., and closed with 44s. 2d; the annual aggregate average was 43s. 11d., the highest was 54s. 4d., the lowest 39s. 8d. per qr. Stocks of foreign left on hand are large in London, and at most of the outports in the United Kingdom.

FLOUR.—The circumstances most worthy of remark is the almost total extinction of the American trade with this market and of the particularly small quantity sent thence to any market in the United Kingdom. Stocks there were so completely used up at the approach of the last harvest that supplies, as they arrived at seaboard, were immediately taken for local consumption, and prices have ruled too high to face our market. From the circumstances mentioned under our "wheat" heading, we must look to little or no assistance from the United States or Canada unless our prices rise fully 3s. per barrel above present rates. The quality of the new American is approved of. The next peculiar feature is the immense supply of France, especially in the second quarter, and the sudden falling off in the arrivals thence in the third quarter, not only to this, but to all the outports. Tempting prices, but none other, may also renew our trade with this country, although she may afterward have to replace. The year commenced with a small stock of foreign, but has gone out with a heavier one here and elsewhere. The value of this article has fluctuated with the rise or fall of wheat, but in a less proportion. Of the 3,297,576 cwts. of foreign imported into the United Kingdom, about 382,858 cwts. came to London.

Through the kind assistance of our public docks and private granary keepers, we have again been able to arrive at a pretty correct estimate of the foreign grain and flour lying in first hands at this port. We therefore compare them with those of the previous year, viz.

	1858.	1859.
Wheat	250,000	205,162
Barley	60,000	20,126
Oats	320,000	238,207
Rye	1,000	1,199
Maize	23,500	5,508
Beans	16,000	4,162
Peas	7,500	2,782
Total	650,000	568,957

The balance consisted of millet, dari, lentils and tares.

Of foreign flour the stocks were—

1858.	1859.
21,000 bbls.	19,321 bbls.
12,000 sacks.	23,924 sacks.

"I AM rejoiced, my dear wife to see you in such good health," said Sparks to his wife. "Health?" was the quick retort, "why I have had the plague ever since I was married."

It is worthy of notice, that while second thoughts are best in the matters of judgment, first thoughts are always best that relate to mortality.

Go down only upon one knee when you ask the hand of a young lady. If you go down on both, you may not be up in time to escape the enraged father's boot.

THE CROP OF ACORNS.

BY MRS L. H. SIGOURNEY.

There came a man in the days of old,
To hire a piece of land for gold,
And urged his suit in accents meek:
"One crop alone is all I seek;
That harvest o'er my claim I'll yield,
And to its lord resign the field."

The owner some misgivings felt,
And coldly with the stranger dealt;
And found his last objection fail,
And urged eloquent to prevail;
So took the proffered price in hand,
And for one crop leased the land.

The wily tenant sneered with pride,
And sow'd the spot with acorns wide;
At first like tiny shoots they grew,
Then broad and wide their branches threw;
But long before these oaks sublime,
Aspiring, reached their forest prime,
The cheated landlord mouldering lay
Forgotten with his kindred clay.

O ye, whose years unfolding fair,
Are fresh with youth and free from care,
Should Vice or Indolence desire
The garden of your soul to hire,
No parley hold, reject their suit,
Nor let one seed the soil pollute.

My child, their first approach beware,
With firmness break the insidious snare,
Lest as the acorns grew and throve
Into a sun-excluding grove,
Thy sins, a dark, o'ershadowing tree,
Shut out the light of heaven from thee.

[Written expressly for the Daily Sentinel.]

TWENTY STEPS TO ONE WOMAN'S HEART.

There was silence instantly, but though they listened, there was nothing heard but the rippling of the tide and the sway of the trees on the island as the ocean breeze swept down the channel.

"I heard a scream somewhere!" said Billet.

"You heard the musical lady in the insane hospital farther up, then," answered Jerry. "I've heard her in myself of nights pouring her vocal throat in a most insane manner over these waters."

"But the hospital is at least a mile off," persisted Billet.

"Well, what of it; don't the wind blow from that direction! Now bend to it, Greenway, and let's get up there before the tide falls," he added to that young gentleman, setting the example himself, by dipping his oars.

A very few moments sufficed to bring them under an overhanging mass of dark trees, which bent from a garden over a stone wall. A boat house of elegant style stood near the steps leading to the lawn, and Jerry, catching hold of the railing, said, "This must be the place boys; let us make fast, and tune up before we get out."

Just as he said this, there burst upon the night air one of those wild, startling screams, which arrest the blood and freeze the source of life for an instant with terror. It was the voice of a woman and unmistakeably proceeded from the house at which they proposed to visit.

"There, I told you so!" said Billet, as Jerry and Greenway stood transfixed. "That did not come from the Island, but from this house, under our noses."

"Gentlemen, it is our duty to return," said Chris, in a hoarse whisper.

But Jerry and Greenway were already on the bank and pushing their way through the foliage, up the ascent.

Clinton, who never missed an opportunity of trying the temper of his companion, said, "I have a presentiment, Chris, that we shall all be murdered."

"I don't know what you're presentiments are," returned the little man, "but self-preservation is the first law of human nature and I shan't sit here and encounter a parcel of desperadoes;" so saying, he seized an oar, with the intention of pushing the boat out into the current.

"None o' that, Chris, an' thou lovest me," said Clinton, catching his arm; "Sink or swim we won't desert our party, but if we have got to die, shuffle off the mortal arrangements like true Alpines don't you see. Pon my soul," he added, as he caught a glimpse of his comrade's face, which was as white as marble, "I believe you're scared.—Your British blood's all faded at the sound of a woman's voice."

Christmas did not relax his hold of the oar, but straightening himself, he answered defiantly:

"My English blood has virtue enough to leave when the society becomes objectionable. Sir, I glory in my paleness. Cowardice is a virtue when bred by discretion."

The effect of this speech was to make Clinton laugh a low contralto trill before he replied:

"The best thing you can do under the circumstances, is to go ashore, or make a virtue of necessity, for you see we are too strong for you." Here the speaker glanced about in the boat, and discovered that, with the exception of Billet, the whole party had gone. That worthy, stretched at full length, was coolly puffing a column of cigar smoke at the planet Mars. As Christmas held the oar irresolute, Clinton turned to Billet:—

"I wonder what's up. Do you smell murder?"

"Navy," was the elegant reply of the recumbent young man: "Some refractory young lady getting chastised, I presume. Had'nt we better take our instruments and follow on. If there is an insurrection in the school, nothing will be so apropos as a strain of 'Meet me by Moonlight Alone,' It will quell the insurgents and make them as harmless as doves."

Saying which Billet lazily got up and picking up a violin case, drew forth an instrument and commenced executing the gamut in a scientific manner.

When Jerry and Greenway had left the boat, the former had been in advance. Without waiting to see who followed him, he sprung from the stone wall upon which the boat-house stood, and clearing at a bound the iron fence, endeavored to force his way thro' the shrubbery up the ascent. After some groping about he struck an avenue bordered with box, and following this he came to another fence where the hill was terraced, the gate of which stood open. Here he was momentarily stopped, noticing a black mass lying directly across the entrance. The light, hemmed in by the spot was by tall trees, was not sufficient to disclose the nature of the substance at once, and stooping down, his hand came in contact with a warm body and a shaggy mass of hair.

The next moment Greenway came up, and Jerry said, "As I live its a great dog with his throat cut."

"What in the name of the Great Matsell is going on?" said his companion. "Are you sure this is the right house, Jerry?"

"I begin to have my doubts. The directions I received said nothing of a boat house."

"Then we are in the wrong box, depend upon't. But we must see it out," continued Greenway, as he went on up the Avenue.—Three or four steps revealed a mansion, but a few rods distant. It was an elegant structure, and the rays of the moon fell silent and white upon it, showing no signs of life or cause for the recent sounds. The first words Jerry uttered as he saw the house were:

"Yes, you're right—that is no boarding school."

As he spoke, there was a sudden flash of light at one of the windows, as though a person had hurriedly entered the room—and voices were faintly heard. The two young men leaned eagerly forward to catch, if possible, the import of the words, and as they did so, the sound of Billet's violin performing the not very appropriate accompaniment of "There's Somebody in the House with Dinah" floated out on the still night air.

"Curse that violin!" ejculated Greenway, and picking up a large stone, he threw it over the trees in the direction of the boat.

This action had the effect of stilling the music, but though they listened, almost holding their breaths, there was nothing heard but the voices of the rest of the party in the Avenue below. Suddenly the door of the house was thrown violently open, and with a wild shriek, a woman darted forth—her hair streaming about her person, and her face, as the rays of the moon fell upon it, revealing like the white and speechless horror of marble—the effects of some sudden and awful calamity. Leaping like a hunted fawn from the verandah steps, her robes fluttering behind her—she came towards that part of the parterre bounding the Avenue, and from which Jerry and his companion were just issuing. As the figures of two men fell upon her vision—she turned partly about, and staggered, but Jerry caught her in his arms.

"We are friends!" he hurriedly exclaimed. "We will protect you, if—" he added, looking around, "there is anything to protect you from."

Disengaging herself from his arms she stood upright, and parting the long masses of hair from her face, cast a bewildered look upon the two young men, disclosing as she stood thus her almost etherial beauty.

"Take me away from this place—anywhere—let me but get away!" and as she spoke she moved toward the passage whence Jerry and Greenway had entered.

"Lady," said the latter, assuming a chivalrous look and tone, which the circumstances seemed to warrant, and laying his hand gently on her arm, "We are young men from the city; we are off on a serenading party and landed here by mistake; if we can be of service to you, command us"

"Oh take me away from here, quick. I cannot explain now. Take we away, and you shall know all. I am pursued; my life is in danger; let me go!" and she struggled to pass down the lawn.

"So help me Heaven. I will take you anywhere you say," ejaculated Jerry, as he looked in her white face. "But believe me, no one can injure you now; our party will garrison your house for a twelvemonth, if you but say the word."

"Oh, no, no! let me go!" and then as Jerry, with a vague suspicion that her reason was dethroned, also laid his hand delicately upon her robed arm, she turned such an imploring look upon him, in which fear and entreaty sat like beautiful ghosts upon the chiselled features and flashed their vivid lights in her eloquent eyes, that he drew back his arm, and as he did so, like a peony stricken in the stem, she bowed her head, and but for the strong arm of Greenway would have fallen to the earth. She had fainted.

THE SENTINEL.

COMMERCIAL.

SATURDAY EVENING, February 11th, 1860.

Money Matters.

The money market has not improved much during the past week although the tendency is in that direction. In the early part of the week especially currency was very scarce and bank accommodations were obtained with much difficulty, but for two or three days past the market has been working easier, and the offerings of good business paper are now pretty much all taken up by the regular houses. The demand for discounts however, is limited. Exchange has been steady with a moderate demand, and no very abundant supply, buying at 1¾ and selling at 2 per cent. premium.

An analysis of the above table will be found suggestive. The Wheat crop of 1859 in the country tributary to this city is not expected, under ordinary circumstances, to be all marketed before the 1st of September next, the time about which the crop of 1860 will commence to move. Comparing the two crops as far as our figures go, that is taking the receipts from September 1st to the present date as compared with the corresponding period in 1858-59, there is a deficiency against the crop of 1858 of something better than two millions of bushels, and we have already received of the crop of 1859, some nine hundred thousand bushels more than the total crop of 1858. Admitting then that the crop of 1859 was two millions of bushels short, owing to the blight, and taking for granted that no more wheat was sown in 1859 than the previous season, the conclusion would be that there are about a million and a quarter bushels of the crop of 1859 still in the hands of the producers, not including the country tributary to this city by teams. But this would hardly be a fair comparison, because it is well known that the wheat crop of 1859 covered a much wider area of ground than that of 1858. It is not unlikely therefore that we shall receive at this city between the present time and the 1st of September, two millions bushels of wheat, which will swell the the total receipts for the year ending August 31st, to seven millions bushels or more, including flour. These figures, however, it should not be forgotten, are predicated to a great extent upon mere conjecture, and the actual amount of the crop may turn out widely different from what we anticipate. Meanwhile, there are none so well qualified to enlighten the commercial community on this interesting point than the producers themselves and country dealers, and we earnestly solicit from them what information they can give us in regard to the amount of wheat still to be marketed. The impression prevails that the farmers yet hold a large amount of wheat, and if erroneous it exercises an injurious influence upon the markets.

CHICAGO, February 10th.—Receipts include: 1225 bbls flour, 9,710 bus wheat, 57,229 bus corn, 7,739 bus oats, 1,209 bus rye, 1,280 bus barley.

The receipts of hogs, five and dressed, to-day amounted to 1,700. The market for dressed hogs, except for the heavy, was not quite so brisk, and holders could not dispose of medium lots so easily as yesterday. There was, however, an active demand for extra to fancy packs, and 7,25 was paid for light to fair to the ruling prices were 6,90@6,60. Live hogs were in good demand and firm.

Provisions are still quiet, and from an absence of buyers, the feeling is not as strong. Sales of 100 bbls city mess pork sold at 15,50, and country mess at 16,12½. The demand for cut meats is still fair, and we report a sale of 6,000 pcs shoulders on private terms. A lot of country pickled shoulders were sold at 11,00; hams at 8½c; and rump and necks at 11,00. Lard is quiet but firm, with a few sales of country leaf at 10c.

The flour market to day was quite active, but at previous prices. About 2,000 bbls changed hands at 4,70@4,85 for fair to good spring extras, and 5,15@4,25½ for spring, with sales of 300 bbls at 4,90; and No. 2 do at 3,75@3,90 in store. The receipts of corn were heavy, and the market fell about 1c. Sales of No. 1 being made at 45@45½c; No. 2, 42c, and rejected, 34@41c. Contracts were made for 15,000 bush Illinois river corn for delivery about the opening of navigation at 40@42c afloat. Oats were heavy, and 1c lower—sales of No 1 in store ranging from 32½@33½c; and rejected 31c. Barley was dull and nominal. Timothy seed sold at 2,75. Clover inactive and nominal. Highwines a shade firmer—low proof selling at 18½.—Press & Tribune.

Weekly Review of Milwaukee Markets.

OFFICE OF THE DAILY SENTINEL, SATURDAY February 11th—6 P. M.

With the exception of the last two days the produce market has maintained a buoyant tone since the date of our last weekly report, and by Wednesday an improvement of 2c in prices of wheat had been gained over the closing quotations of last week, No. 1 selling on the track at $1,00. This advance was partially lost on Friday, and to-day the market was dull at 98c for No. 1; $1,01@1,02 for Club; and $1,06@1,08 for Extra.—Receipts are on the increase, but as will be observed by a comparison with the correspond ng period last year, are still lighter than might be expected.

The flour trade for one or two days exhibited some signs of animation, but as soon as the wheat market ceased to advance, it relapsed into its former inactivity. Spring Extras are offered at $4,50@4,75 for good to prime country. There are only a few favorite brands quoted at the outside figure, and the demand is very limited, speculators, with rare exceptions, lacking confidence to invest in this article.

The market for coarse grains has not been active, and closes at a slight decline on all kinds. Grass seed is held at former quotations, but the demand for it has diminished quite sensibly since last week, and to some instances lower prices have been accepted for medium qualities of Timothy seed.

Dressed hogs have advanced fully 25c per cwt. since last week, and receipts being light, the demand far exceeded the supply. During the latter part of the week hogs averaging 200 to 250 pounds and upwards sold freely at $6,50@6,75.

Provisions of all kinds remain firm at the quotations given in our Prices Current.

We have had two foreign arrivals during the past week, that of the North Briton, on Wednesday, with Liverpool advices to the 25th ult., reporting breadstuffs steady, and that of the Canada, on Friday, with three days' later intelligence, reporting flour and wheat dull with a declining tendency; provisions steady; sugars firm, and tea slightly higher. The former exercised a stimulating influence upon the produce market, which, however, was more than counterbalanced by the Canada's news.
